Home is for the young, who know nothing of the world and who would be <sup>forfeit</sup> ~~forlorn~~ and sad, if thrown upon it. It is providential, <sup>opportune</sup> shelter of the weak and inexperienced who have to learn as yet to cope with the temptations which lie outside of it. It is the place of training for those who are not only <sup>uneducated</sup> ignorant, but have not yet learnt how to learn, and who have to be taught by careful individual attention for how to profit from the lessons of teacher. And it is the school of elementary <sup>basic</sup> studies — not of advances, for such studies alone can make master minds. Moreover, it is the <sup>how</sup> shrine of our best affections, the <sup>bosom</sup> bosom of our fondest recollections, a spell upon our after life, a stay for <sup>weight</sup> ~~world~~ weary mind and soul; wherever we are, till the end comes. Such are attributes or offices of home, and like to these, in one or other sense or measure, are the attributes and offices of a college in a university.
