Messengers of Greek Gods

The mysteries of life led man to be fearful and connect with divine powers that controlled the universe and fate. This required knowledge of God's desires which the soothsayers interpreted through signs, such as, lightning, movement and direction of fire. In addition, interpretation of dreams and palmistry was also popular. Many times, god communicated through prophets and prophetesses. Ancient Greek oracles operated majestically by foreseeing the future. Each oracle was linked to one of the gods - Appollo delivered Zeus's commands - ents. The oracles of Delphi and Dodus functioned with the help of Appollo and Zeus. (Woods - 132)
