

Precis of CSS 2016

The writer writes that last year he was in search of an alluring and delightful place to spend his holidays. His friend suggested Cherokee and they took a flight to Cherokee. They visited a mountainous town called Qualla Boundary. The place was a reflection of eighteenth century due to its lifestyle and tribal crafts. In spite of language differences, they still found gift shops with the help of locals. These shops comprised of traditional war hawks, axes and tents. They met a middle-aged man, who spoke good English. He told them that the locals do not rely mainly on trade and for earning extra money, they participate in special events such as "Bingo Weekend", where various kinds of games are played to earn good amount of money. Finally, before returning, they paid a visit to a museum where different ~~types~~ arts were displayed.

(139)

Title

Cherokee: A depiction of 18th century