Title :- The importance of affection of teachers with children

Precis

Modern educationists prefer not to interact with children rather than enjoying their company. If teachers show liking for children, they will be more responsive to their ideas without complaining much. Children will not feel thankful, if one tries to create in them a social sense and has in mind some future expectations of them. The most important thing for teacher is to show interest in children with pleasure without any hidden purpose. Unluckily, over-worked teachers can't show affection for children. Teachers contact with children should not exceed two hours a day. Good relation of teachers with children should exist but with-in certain limits. Along with that, these limits cannot replace affection of teachers with children.
