

Pakistan's economic crisis.

(Topic Sentence:)

Pakistan is facing economic crisis because of lavish lifestyles of powerful interests.

(Explanatory Sentence:)

The extravagant expenditures of these elites have put enormous pressure on already fragile economy.

(Supporting point:)

The World Bank's country chief had alluded to this a few days back when he pointed fingers at the country's military, business and political elites for the economic mess Pakistan is struggling to resolve today.

(Evidence:)

According to a Karachi-based brokerage firm, the govt has issued new debt of over RS 2.5 tr. during the first three months of the current fiscal year to finance its burgeoning fiscal deficit - the gap b/w its revenues & expenditures.

(Conclusion:)

The economic crisis in Pakistan is a result of elites' excessive spending habits which if not taken into account will further worsen its condition.
