Rough Draft:

The existence of man is so complex. It is in between sorrow and suffering.

But a person could not distress from world. World is all about reflection of man.

Try to be optimist all the time. Welcome all situations with good deeds.

Always thankful to all blessings of life. Life is chilling for thinkers but tragic for others.

Both options are available to man. This concept is for good man in-between life and death, by Socrates.

Common people thinks that independence of judiciary and public are two different things in the country. In reality this is wrong. Every law imposes some restrictions upon citizens. If there are more laws in the country, then more restrictions will be imposed. With more restrictions person's freedom is mashed under laws. In other side, if quantity of laws is lesser, then citizens enjoy more freedom.
