

Non-state actors and Sectarian war

Sectarian war had completely demaged Pakistan.
^{In Past,} Pakistani security forces had started many operations against different groups and controlled on it but once again it had started.

It is responsibility of every government to provide peaceful environment to public. Furthermore, recent activities by different sectarian groups and terrorist groups have challenged government and law enforcement institutions. Besides, recent attack in Bijoux and Fasilabad church attack had arised many questions in public mind. Therefore, it is responsibility of government and security forces to start operation against these non-state actors.
