Human beings when came across with the mysteries of life, want to communicate with the superior powers and want to know about God's wishes. In Ancient Greece, these wishes were used to be decoded by soothsayers who give their oracles by different signs sent by gods. The interpretation of dreams and palmistry was also famous. When god did not give signs, they talk directly to the prophet or prophetess in a state of ecstasy who then deliver messages from god. Oracles were located with in sanctuaries associated with gods. Apollo, was responsible for conveying to mortals the decisions of Zeus. Among all oracles at the Delphi, the oldest was that of Dodona, that functions with the help of Zeus.
