III - Conclusion.

Youth bulge is a common phenomena in many developing countries, and especially in the least developed countries. Pakistan is a developing country which has the large number of population. As per the first post independence population census in 1951, Pakistan's population stood at 34 million which is fastly increased in 76 years about 207 million. As per recent digital census of 2023, Pakistan population stand on 241.49 million which make it world's fifth most populous country. According to Pakistan National Human Development Report, 68 per cent of the population is under the age of 30 and <sup>about</sup> 27% of the population is between the age of 15 and 29 which is a big asset for Pakistan but it is ignored by government and do not get focus on them which lead them towards destruction. they get used to drug addiction, robbery, murdering, and suffering from malnutrition and unemployment. but if government of Pakistan focus a lit bit on them they <sup>it</sup> <sup>it</sup> would convert into a big asset. They can help in capital development and human development of country, Through them we can promote tourism and culture and can also increase remittances through sending them in developed countries for work and Pakistani government need to focus on them to make them asset rather than liability.
