

Q

Identify the main difference between public management and private management and between public governance and corporate governance.

Answer: Introduction

" Good governance leads to good public management, and corporate governance promotes private management."

(C. Jacques Hussain)

Public management and private management are as different as public governance and corporate governance. In fact, public management is led by public governance, while private management is led by corporate governance.

Thus, public management and private management are two different sides of the same coin.

2. Definition of public management

"Public management is managing all sorts and noisms of public by the government."

(-Hans Siler)

Public management is all about principle of public needs and demands. In fact, government responds to the public value.

"On demand of women for their protection, the government of Sindh launched women exclusive buses in Karachi."

(- Faizal Bano, highest re-evaluation (2023))

Thus, public management is the government's response to public needs.

3- Definition of private management

"Private management is managing all sort and facilities of people in a particular private sector."

(- Zubair Maslaja)

Private management is managing all facilities and demands of people in a private sector, by the private management. Several functions are prevailing under private management.

"Several NGOs are providing quality of education and affordable education for children

in parts of the world."

(- Zubrida Mustafa, education reformer, 2023)

Thus, private management is about services provided by private sector.

4- Difference between public management and private management

Public management and private management are unlike. Both have the same function, but different authorities.

"Public management provides free services to public, while

private management
is paid-service.

(- Toqeer Hussain)

Therefore, public management services are often free, while private management services are paid.

Public management

(free-services)

Private management

(paid services)

Differences

4- Public governance explanation

"Public governance are actions performed by the government."

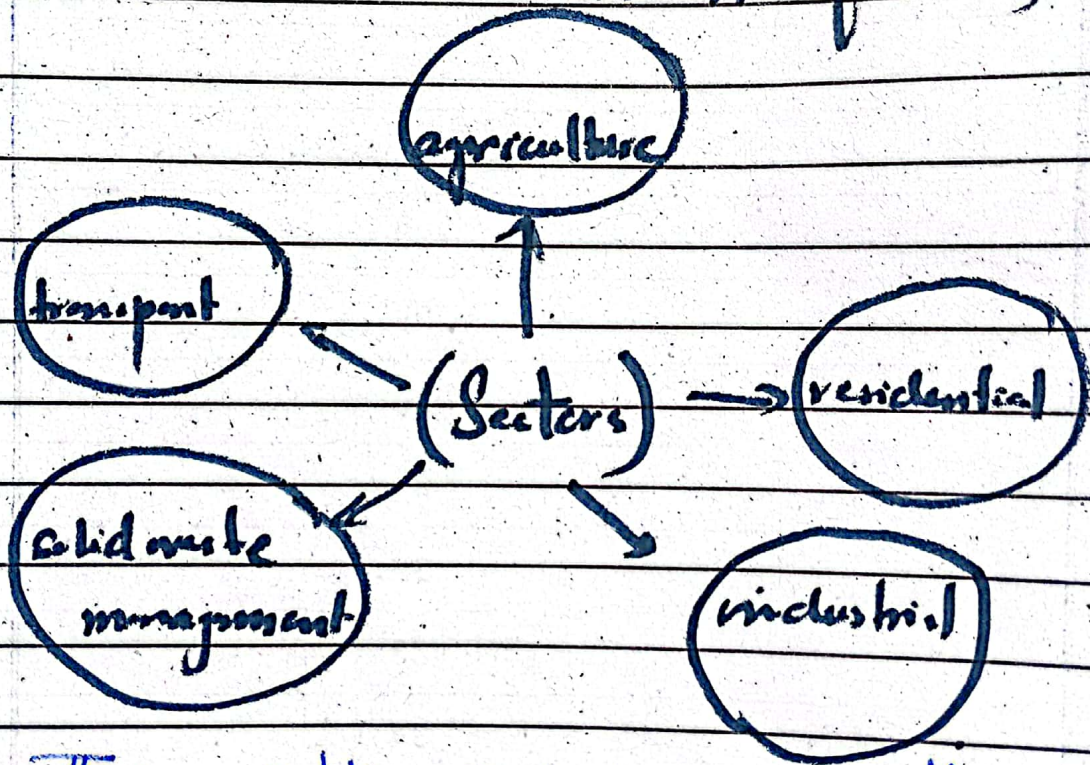

(- Same haqmat)

Public governance are prevailing actions of the government. In fact, performance of the government in public sector, called public governance.

"Pakistan can provide clean air by improving five sectors in air quality."

Shirz Rehman
(NEAP of 2003)

Thus, public governance is all about performance of the government.

5-

Corporate governance explanation

"Corporate governance are actions performed by the private and public government or authorities together."

(John Elkann)

Corporate governance prevail corporation of the government and private authorities. In fact, services or performances in welfare are supported by the cooperation of both.

"Several semi-government institutions help in governance."

Therefore, corporate governance is a joint performance!

6.

Difference between public governance and corporate governance

Public governom-

ce and corporate governance are also not identical like public management and private management. Both are performed by different drivers.

" Public governance is sole composition of public value by the government, while

Corporate governance is pluralism co-operation between government and private authorities."

Public governance

(singularity)

(government)

Corporate governance

~~one~~

(pluralism)

(government + private)

Thus, public governance and corporate governance are two different actions.

7 Conclusion

"Public management
and public governance
move together,
and

Private management
and corporate governance
move together...

(- Zubaida Mustafa)

Public management and public governance are two different performance like public governance and corporate governance are two different actions. Main difference is of role performed by either government or private authorities or by the both. Thus, public management and governance; and private management and corporate governance often move together.