Title: Psychological Causes of Unhappiness/... (2011)

Unhappiness, a psychological Phenomena

There is no room for doubt that there are numerous psychological causes of unhappiness. However, there exist a commonality among them which is unhappiness witnessed by a man in his youth due to failure to achieve certain dream.

Resultantly, such person acquires pleasure in being distracted and oblivious to the real world.

Darkness becomes a part and parcel for him to be intertemporary happiness which in itself a negative phenomena. Whereas, empowerment to such person to believe on the possibility of acquiring happiness and appreciated the process involved in it can act as a viable cure for a person of such condition.

Peace in Afghanistan is extremely necessary for Pakistan and it is highly optimistic of it^{that} furthermore. Pakistan shares geographical proximity to Afghanistan combined with historical, cultural and linguistic heritage with each other. Both are dependent upon each other as they cannot remain isolated to one another. Since the very first day, political solution has been priority for Pakistan towards Afghan crisis and China also emphasizes the same. China has clearly maintained that dialogue is the only way for Afghan government. And Pakistan with China for their strategic responsibility would play their role to ease Afghan crisis by means of negotiations.
