V- conclusion

Blood and tears, violence and mayhem, love and hate — these are the rocks upon which peaceful world is bound to coexist. Since the emergence of industrialization (1960), these peaceful rocks have been rolling into a tangled web of violence, unrest, and instability at large scale. At present moment, the world peace is largely remained a night-marish dream to turn into a reality due to the invasion of super-powers to smaller smaller countries, marginalization of the labour classes, and due to the wave of dis-information. In contrast to this, many people opined that world peace is not merely a utopian dream but can be a reality. This reality is evident in rising level of diplomatic normalizations for global peace. In current scenario, world peace is tilting towards a dystopian nature in various arena such as marginalization of capitalist classes, green-washing, and geo-strategic invasions. Therefore, world peace remains a utopian dream which holds no reality. However, some might disagree with this notion which does not seem much convincing.

The manifestation of dystopian nature of world peace are outline inter-alia as following:

The invasion of super-powers to smaller countries can derail the fabric of global peace. The deliberate nature of invasion invokes anxiety and disrupts supply chain globally. For instance, the invasion of Russia to Ukraine in 2021 shackles the global peace as it disrupts the global supply chains. This indicates that super-powers are keen to invade the smaller peaceful state. In resultant, such kinds of invasion try to up the world peace.

Besides invasion, the prevalent of capitalistic classes tend to marginalize the lower labour classes. This marginalization engenders the global peace when capitalistic market failed to empower workers financially. The manifestation of this is evident from a recent strike of United Automobile Workers (UAW) in America. In August (2023), the workers of automobile companies strikes for discriminate nature of wages they have been getting. Hence, this indicates that marginalization of labour class can cause harm to peaceful existence.
