

Falsehood, A Base of All Evils.

Falsehood, and upto some extent obstinacy are the most dangerous social evils that people are unaware of. These grow with the society and take control over its people. According to Pythagoreans, truth is finite and has limits and untruth is multidimensional and uncertain.

Author says that life should be sacrificed over truth.

According to Montaigne, company of dog is better than a liar and silence is better than lying.