

Outline :-

If women are not protected socially, Can legal actions protect them.

1. Introduction:

Thesis statement:

It is a weak hope that if women are not protected socially then legal actions can protect them because in many countries including Pakistan women laws are present but they are not protected. So, there should be socialized campaign to protect them.

2. Women can be save in civilized society, legal actions are not compulsory.

3. Women protection laws are present in following countries but still they're not save.

a) Despite of law women face violence in Europe

Outline: -

If women are not protected socially, Can legal actions protect them.

1. Introduction:

Thesis statement:

1) It is a weak hope that if women are not protected socially then legal actions can protect them because

2) in many countries including Pakistan women laws are present but they are not protected. So, there should be socialized campaign to protect them

3. 2. Women can be save in civilized society, legal actions are not compulsory.

3. Women protection laws are present in following countries but still they're not save.

a) Despite of law women face violence in Europe.

- 2) Despite of laws women face violence in USA.
- 3) Despite of laws women face violence in
- 4) Despite of law women are not protected in Pakistan even.

If laws are present then why women are not protected.

- 1) Structural barriers in judicial, police & prosecution system
- 2) Political interference is such cases reverse situation
- 3) Fear of stigma & backlash from the family & legal community refrains women to take illegal actions.
- 4) Due to socio-cultural patriarchal norms women do not take legal action.
- 5) Majority of the women are even not aware of their legal rights.

If society is civilized and educated then women can be protected.

- 1) In civilized society men protect women because of awareness of ethical values.
- 2) Women are not only harassed at workplaces but also in home, so if their homes are civilized they can be safe.
3. In civilized societies mother tells their children about dignity & respect of women so that they can be safe.
4. In civilized societies religious values are common and women can feel safe in them.

Conclusion.