

Topic: Not all those who wander are lost

Outline

1) Introduction

Thesis Statement: Wandering does not mean that always someone is lost. Rather wandering actually leads humans to their exact destination. Through wandering one may reach to a point or place where he may become satisfied.

2) Actual Meaning of Wandering

3) An individual may wander without being lost

3.1) A person may wander to search answers to his questions of being.

3.2) A religious scholar may wander to find an answer to the question that who has created this world.

3.3) An individual may wander to enhance his knowledge

3.4) Reasons behind wandering can be of earning a livelihood and finding a job.

4) Without being lost a wandering can be done to fulfill a society's need

4.1) A great leader may wander to become aware of his nation's need.

4.2) A policeman wanders to keep law and order in a society.

4.3) A pious person may wander in streets to help any person in need.

5) Reason behind wandering varies

5.1) Nomadic people wander to find suitable place to live.

5.2) People in past wandered in oceans to find new trade routes.

5.3) Wandering can be done to discover new places.

5.4) A tourist may wander from East to West and from South to North, to see new places and different cultures.

5.5) A scientist may wander to invent something.

6) Conclusion