

To tread the path of philosophy is to seek after truth and follow a way of life. Before a man sets out on the quest after truth, he must fulfil certain conditions. First, there must be discrimination between the real and the unreal. The statement means, not that a man must possess complete knowledge of absolute reality, which is attained only after long practice of meditation, but that he must unflinchingly subject the nature of things to a rigid analysis by discriminating between what is transitory and what is abiding or between what is true and what is false. The second condition is detachment from the selfish enjoyments of life. The aspirant must learn that the highest good is realised not through worldly pleasure, but realised not through worldly pleasure, but through a continuous search for the infinite, the enduring joy. This ideal of renunciation must be realised by a gradual purification of the seeker's heart and mind. A third condition is that the student must acquire tranquility of mind, self-control, patience, poise, burning faith in things of the spirit and self-surrender. These are called the six treasures of life. The thirst for release is the fourth condition. Deliverance from spiritual darkness,

^
Deliverance from spiritual darkness, entrance upon the path of illumination comes only through annihilation of the false ego. When the ego dies, all troubles cease says Sri Ramakrishna. Such a condition of being does not imply the loss of one's individuality but rather the attainment of a great individuality, for we can lose nothing that is real. Kalidasa, the great poet and dramatist, has beautifully expressed this truth. He says that the ideal of renunciation consists in owning the whole world disowning one's own self.

main idea is picked but you are unable to explain it in your own words content makes no sense and has no coherence of context not satisfactory at all 0/20 basic grammar is poor and there is grammatical error too

~~whole~~ ~~world~~ Title: Attaining Truth through disowning oneself.

The purpose of philosophy is to attain truth. Before knowing truth, one must differentiate between ~~between~~ ^{between} real and unreal, and what is temporary and foreliving.

Aspirant must know greatest truth hidden not only wordly pleasure but through renunciation. Peace can be found by ^{what are you trying to say??} surrendering oneself. By killing ego, one can illuminate the path of spiritual glory. If one loses oneself, one can't afraid to loss anything. ^{again no sense of this sentence} By disowning oneself

One can own whole world. (92 words) / 280