

Date _____ Title: Universities, Shaping Societies

Universities must play a practical role in training people to shape the world for good. Although universities produced people who had extended remarkable services, ^{but now} they no longer do so. This is because universities are not limited to ^a single subject. University education shapes social fabric by ~~mixing~~ moulding individual minds of a nation according to prevalent ~~stands~~ trends. It provides means to students for ~~self-actualization~~ self-actualization and differentiation of right from ~~wrong~~ wrong, ultimately pushing them to ~~excel~~ excel in their subjects and to acquire job for themselves.

Words of actual passage: 223
~~Required word count: 75~~
 Word count of attempt: 82 (+5)

main idea is picked and discussed over all expression is ok but need improvement in basics grammar
 content is acceptable but there is room for improvement
 8/20