The Purpose of Education

The writer presented three school of thought on freedom in education. One supports said that children should be given complete freedom. Second said that students should be subjected to authority. Third said that they will be good if they should be given freedom. The writer ^{opposed} negated complete freedom to children. He said that children should be given moral and mental equipment which ~~can~~ cannot be acquired by themselves. Those who provided complete freedom should have self-control and trained intelligence to guide students effectively. Education should give them knowledge as well as moral values.
