Introduction: Link first line, with the quoton there is a women? women play a complementary and important role in the Talk about society three has gifted them with special attributes, so that himan race would continue to grow and prosper. They are the folcours around which the family revolves. Women are venturing into fields like aviation, défense etc. They nave well-acknowledged contribution in the field of education and health care.

Women comprise fifty percent of the human population, contributing the same percent to the GPP. Countries which have denied equal right to women, are backward both technologially and socially. Undoubtedly, men and women should have equal rights in all aspects. Therefore, women can be made equal to men in socio, political and economic life but the reare certein formidable challenges. There is no doubt in the fact that constitution of pakistern shows that, there is equality in both sen. More over, there is increase in number of women in judiciary, price offices and other different jobs in Paristern. Along with that, women have reserved seats in various government institutions, like additional 10% seat certain challenges in the way a women in equality in pakistan. These challenges includes: less access q education, socio-polifical and economic marginilization, primitive norms quander gand retrogressive interpretection of religion. Furthernore, women of polaisteun are facing physical, emotional and sexual violence. These all challenges can be cured by providing women eyeof health and educational appearanther, by dispelling primitive cultural biasness, by including more women in judiciary so that they can make decisions, by understanding the basic problems and needs of women in pakisten. In a nutshell, by involving the women in all spheres of life; only then a country can progress.
