

Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall mashahAllah relevant start

1. Introduction

"Failures and disappointments are part and parcel of life. However rising after the initial fall makes the journey far more glorious and everlasting"

2- Those who do not rise after falling, are bound to be wiped out ~

Historical examples

a- Ancient civilizations did not rise after calamities ~ Mohenjo Daro and Mesopotemi mohenjo Daro and Mesopotemi: real manifestation b- Species that could not adapt with the environment got extinct ~ survival of the fittest try to write a bit short c- Empires and nations that could not rise after wars were removed from the face of earth d- Indian states that could not stand against the subsidiary alliance of Britishers were forever subjugated e- Companies that could not adapt themselves with change were replaced by their competitors. ~ Nokia.

B- Historical evidence of glorious rise after falling a- Earth as a living being went through many cycles of extinction and rejuvenation b- Empires that rose after falling are considered far more glorious ~ Rome and Mughals c- Humanity "standing tall" despite wars, famines and plagues d- Indian subcontinent and its glorious struggle for freedom e- Constitution of Pakistan 1973, standing tall despite its fall.

4- Individuals can live glorious lives by rising every time they fall a- Those who are afraid of falling can never start anything b- People who give up on their dreams live a life of regret c- People who did not give up after the initial failures made history.

~ Helen Keller, JK Rowling

5- Falling is not failing per se, it is one more opportunity to rise up in case study of Pakistan a- Exemplary resilience of Pakistan throughout its tumultuous history b- Contemporary issues and the hope for future.

6- Conclusion

Introduction

On the inauguration of his Presidency, Nelson Mandela was asked by a reporter about what had kept him going all these years against the Apartheid regime - even after two decades in prison. Mandela's answer was simple: he quoted his favourite poem "Invictus" and remarked "I am the master of my fate, I am the captain of my soul". He said that when one falls the next obvious step to pull oneself up; dust off the clothes and keep moving on; for that is what "glory" was and will be. Therefore, one should not fear failing as that is a part of life. However not being able to stand after initial problems sometimes wipes out whole species as they could not adapt to the environmental adversities. Moreover many civilizations, empires and even modern day companies befall the same fate, just because they did not try to overcome the issues once they arose. In contrast to the examples of annihilation after initial fall, these are many historical evidences where the glorious rise of was seen despite the initial failure.

A striking example is of our very own planet earth. Furthermore, the example of ~~of~~ Mughal and Mauryan empire and the freedom of Indian subcontinent is another such example. We can also observe the glorious rise in individual life as well. Many famous personalities saw failures in their life before making it big in the world. Currently, Pakistan is going through a myriad of problem, but keeping in mind its historical & exemplary resilience in the past, there is still hope for its rise.

As failures and disappointments are part and parcel of life and its the rise after the early fall that makes the journey glorious and everlasting.

Conclusion

It can be claimed without an iota of doubt

It is to be said without any doubt that adversities and calamities are the fundamental part of life. When faced with these adversities, falling is a normal part. However consistent effort and perseverance can help achieve glory in life.

Just like the earth, which managed to be the only living planet in the entire solar system, species that survived the adverse environment and humanity that is still standing all despite the wars, famines and plagues, people in their lives can also overcome the hardships in their life through consistent effort. Successful people are not successful because they never fall, winners are not winners because they never lost and victorious are not victorious because they never been defeated. In fact falling, losing and being defeated are just part of the journey. As Nelson Mandela ones said "I never lose. I either win or learn"

good keep it up mashahAllah u have best mind to think and best heart to feel moreover, courage to write in other language what