Distressing news continues to pour in from Khyber Pakhtunkhwa where once a vestigial presence of Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan is fast transforming itself into a force to reckon with. Not only are they determined to leave a bloodied trail in their wake, but their bizarrely-worded press release, praising local heroes who contributed towards the rescue operation in Battagram and announcing cash awards, carries a terrifying tinge. This time around, the agenda does not centre around simple, no-questions-asked bouts of violence. By crafting a social agenda by winning over the local population and promising to turn over a new leaf, they appear to replicate the Kabul model. A series of serious allegations were further affirmed by the British High Commissioner to Pakistan who warned against not taking due note of a thriving collaboration between Pakistani Taliban and their brother outfits in Afghanistan. Although the public sentiment

KP is facing issue of flourishing TTP, that is determined to establish reign of terror by adopting the strategy of putting locals in dreams of having new era like Afghanistan. TTP not only convince them but also announces cash awards for them on events of contributing to secure operation in Balochistan. In this situation, Gov Pakistan takes a risk to put its one of the important provinces on risk. However, British High Commissioner to Pakistan had also warned Pakistan about flourishing partnership between TTP and Afghan Taliban.
