

My City

"The Secret of Sufism is that there is no Secret" Idrees Shah

Multan- the City of Culture, Love, art, richness, religion and saints is where I belong to. Multan is a beautiful City with rich heritage. It is an ancient City which has been the rule of Umayyad, Sikhs, delhi sultanate and lastly the british. It is known primarily as the hub of SiraiKi speaking people. However, the City is renowned for its mystics and shrines that's why it is called THE CITY OF SAINTS. Every year, hundreds of pilgrims visit Multan on the death anniversary of Bahauddin Zakariya and Shamsuddin Sabzwari. The City wakes at the first cockcrow to follow their daily life. As the Sunlight spreads, so does the magic of flowers and colors in its centuries old industry of blue Pottery. Blue Pottery is the art of joyful Sufiism. This technique reached Multan when Muhammad Bin Qasim Conquered it. Since then, Multan is cherishing this art both for its livelihood and revival of Sufiism. Despite the rich history of Multan, I love my city for its favors. From Clocktower in its Centre of the food streets in the walled Cities. It presents delicious and tangy Cuisine. Multan's most famous dish is a sweet dish called Sohni Halwa that is made with a combination of water, sugar, milk and cornflour and a generous amount of dry fruit. That appetizing dish is cherished through out Pakistan in winters especially. In addition to all of this, Multan is the 7th largest city of Pakistan and one of the five largest urban centres of Pakistan in 2024.
