

Higher Education in Pakistan: Ills and Remedies.

Outline

I- Introduction

Thesis statement: Higher education is facing myriad ill's in Pakistan including outdated curriculum and faculty conundrum. Multiple factors are responsible for the ill's. However, there are ways that can alleviate ill's of higher education in the country.

II- Ills of Higher Education in Pakistan;

- A- Outdated Curriculum
- B- High quality faculty conundrum
- C- Lack of proper infrastructure
- D- Rising cost of education
- E- Lack of new methods
- F- Gap between theory and practice
- G- Growing privatization of public universities

III- Factors responsible for the presence of ill;

A- Insufficient funding

B- Bigoted role of politicians

C- Deficient research culture

D- Poor management and supervision

E- Secularization of education

IV- Recommendations for remedying the Higher education in Pakistan;

A- Reasonable budget allocations

B- Faculty development

C- Revision of curriculum

D- Encourage research culture

E- Promoting Industry-Academic

collaborations

F- Implementation of Evaluation mechanism

G- Utilising Indigenous resources

V- Conclusion

In
are
M

In Pakistan universities are like gardens where the seeds of knowledge are sown. However, sometimes, these gardens face tough times. They might not have enough water (Funds) or the right tools (resources) to help all plants (students) grow well. Moreover, in the landscape of Pakistan's educational system, higher education stands as a beacon of advanced learning and intellectual development. It is the stage where the youth are molded into professionals, thinkers and leaders who shape the future of nation. However, this crucial <sup>sector</sup> is facing myriad ills including outdated curriculum, high quality faculty conundrum and lack of proper infrastructure.

Moreover, rising cost of education and lack of new methods are also major ills of higher education in the country. Many factors are responsible for the presence of ills including insufficient funding, bigoted role politicians and deficient research culture. In addition, secularization of education, poor management and supervision are also cause of ills of higher education in Pakistan. Whereas, there are remedies that alleviate ills of higher education in the country such as reasonable budget allocations, faculty development and implementation of evaluation mechanism. In fact, higher education is facing myriad ills in Pakistan. Multiple factors are responsible for illustration. However, there are ways that can alleviate the issue of higher education in the country.

Date: _____

Day: _____

Education in the country is a major factor for the development of the country.

One of the major factors for the development of the country is the presence of a well-organized education system.

Education is a key factor in the development of the country.

Education is a key factor in the development of the country.

Education is a key factor in the development of the country.

Education is a key factor in the development of the country.

Education is a key factor in the development of the country.

Education is a key factor in the development of the country.