The Essay

The military dictator Zia-ul-Haq, introduced Islamic laws (Hudood Ordinance), that severely limited women's rights, making them vulnerable to discrimination and violence.

Like this, there are many aspects in which women do not have equal chance as men.

This gender inequality refers to the unequal treatment, opportunities, and rights afforded to individuals based on their gender. It is a complex and multifaceted issue that affects the individuals, communities, and societies worldwide.

This discrimination creates limiting women's access to education, employment, healthcare, and political representation. Women generally earn less than men, with gender-based wage.

Furthermore, women are underrepresented in political positions of power. In addition to this patriarchal society creates gender disparity and limited authority for women.

Pakistan has been ranked as the second worst country in terms of gender parity in terms parity in latest Global Gender Gap Report released by the World Economic Forum. This report show that pakiston face serious issue to adress gender inequality but progress is being made through more education opportunities, economic empowerment, policy reform and legal protection for women.
