The city of Lahore is not only city of politics but also an ancient center of cultural hub. The Mughal empires culture witnessed their zenith in this city. It was center for Sikh culture.

The city also fostered culture of knowledge and literature. It was also center of Sufism. Hazrat Ali

Hajveri, famously known as Data

Ganj, the writer of famous Sufi book Kashf ul Majab, is also buried in this city. The fashion of Lahore was also in vogue in subcontinent during British rule. The importance of city did not decrease even after creation of Pakistan.

Effect of climate conditions on human activities

The Temperate region of north Europe has positive effect on human development. As it nourishes human capacities from challenges of climate. Extreme cold numb human activity and extreme hot provide little energy. Unlike this, moderate cold invoke human activity by acting as an obstacle. In moderate cold regions, man is busy in arduous but hopeful struggles. He strive for food, ~~and~~ shelter and other necessacities of life. On contrary, the tropic life require little efforts for such things. These different seasons of the year have different impact on human activity. In hot temperate he is generally idle and tends to be relaxed whereas in cold temperate he put more efforts of mind and bodies.
