

Precis

Greeks Attitude towards Grand Objects of Nature

Indent the paragraph.

Primitive people of Greece never appreciated the natural beauty of their country. They, <sup>in fact</sup> in fact, saw them as a hurdle in their life in one way or another.

The

Author is also of the view that they were right in their approach as abundance of mountains and forests had made their lives difficult. Some thought about sea was depicted in Homer's poetry; sea and its shore were thought to be useless areas.

Do not include examples in precis.

Due to their (Greeks) Greeks hostility towards nature, they never depicted it in art and poetry.

No change Greek
the
and the in day are natu

No change was perceptible in Greek society <sup>until</sup> they faced the effects of noise, dust and turbulence. Then, they felt the importance of natural beauty in their lives. So, from Alexander's day, many authors <sup>and</sup> poets ~~etc~~ are found who ~~has~~ appreciated nature in their works.

Total Words : 414

Precis Words : 125

City life

Idea is generally ok. Mistakes identified.

Connectivity is also ok.