Q2:

The Threat To Democratic Integrity

Around four billion people have the opportunity to cast their votes this year but misinformation about electoral processes lose the trust of citizens about democracy. However, in past some Anti-democratic agents attacked the election website in Spain and spread false information about terrorist attacks on polling stations. AI-generated deepfakes are also threat to democracy. But these issues need serious practices by authorities: recognition of the problem; false information must be warranted and strict law and order against the culprits.
