

1) Introduction:

Thesis Statement:

Climate change represents the most-critical threat to humanity. It requires unified efforts to transform societies, economics and individual lifestyle to prevent catastrophic consequences.

2) Climate change being more

2) How climate change can be threat to world.

3) Climate change being - the most-urgent threat to world.

a) Environmental damages such as rising sea levels, melting glaciers and loss of bio diversity

b) Climate change poses serious health impact like heatwaves, air pollution, and vector borne diseases

c) Climate change threatens global economic stability.

d) Climate change threatens global food security due to crop failure -

, changed growing seasons & reduced agriculture productivity.

4) Other issues than pose more threats than Climate Change -

a) Global poverty like hunger, malnutrition, lack of access to basic needs impact the globe more than Climate Change

b) A severe economic downturn can have far-reaching consequences for individuals, communities and nations.

c) Political instability such as conflicts, terrorism and social unrest can have significant impacts on human well-being and global stability.

d) Nuclear conflict and its devastating consequences make it a significant threat.

5) Despite other global challenges, Climate Change stands out as the most urgent threat for globe.

- a) Climate Change has far reaching and irreversible consequences on human societies and ecosystem.
- b) Climate Change worsens existing global challenges such as food insecurity, water scarcity, health impacts and economic stability.
- c) Despite competing concerns climate change demands immediate attention as its impacts worsen existing issues and threaten the very foundation of human societies.
- d) Climate change is the most urgent threat, requiring immediate attention and collective action.
- e) Conclusion.