

Impacts Of Climate On Man

Cold weather is a blessing for hot countries and it makes positive effect on the people of that countries. Cold weather boost the energy level of the people and make people more efficient and progressive, but on the other hand people of temperate regions are lazy and unefficient they try to live life more comfortable without accepting any challenge than people of cold regions. on the contrary intense cold weather also freeze the feeling of the people their energies. It is naturally proved, weather conditions directly affect the human nature in every region of the world.

Total words : 336

Précis : 96