Precis:

Title: Importance of Affection
in Teaching

The author writes that most of the modern educational theories give considerable importance to how to deal with children. He also writes that it is of no use to like a kid for the achievement of your personal goals and interests. Instead, it is more desirable to draw happiness from the company of children alone. Similarly, a good teacher is the one who doesn't compromise child's freedom and mental health in the process of teaching. No doubt, it is difficult for a teacher to develop natural liking for children when they are exhausted. The writer believes that, kind behavior of teachers towards kids cannot only be ensured through theories. Perhaps, ~~impassive~~ impulse plays an important role in making right decisions. And, all those decisions will be right that includes love and affection for kids.
