

Impact of military competition on international relations.

Outline:

1. Introduction:

Thesis Statement: Military competitions between nations have not only impacted the relations between competitors but also harmed the world. Military competitions have resulted in the formation of alliance, spread unrest, caused wars, set back economic ties so on and so forth.

2. Overview to military competition:

3. Impacts of military competition on international relations:

3.1 Formation of alliance

3.2 Spreads unrest worldwide

3.3 Nuclear race among competitors

SPRI Report 2024

3.4 Causation of war

A case study Ukraine - Russia war

3.5 Harms economic ties between competitors

Reuters Report on Russian Economy

3.6 Sanctions against one another

A case study of Iran

3.7 Establishment of proxies against one another

3.8 Increases nuclear war risks

3.9 Reduces people to people interactions

3.10 Threatens peace

4. ~~way forward~~: ~~no military solution to the conflict~~

4.1 Role International organizations is needed to curb the military competition

4.2 Reforms in UNSC so that it can better play role to maintain peace

4.3 Role international community to ~~sancctioned~~ military grants

5.

Conclusion:

~~Non-military solution of war~~

~~Underline important no military solution to the conflict~~

~~curb the military~~

~~i.e.~~

~~international teams~~

~~6.6~~

~~military grants and arms~~

~~6.6~~

~~1993-1995 1992~~

~~July 1990~~

~~4.6~~

~~the armed - friendly zone and a~~

~~united armed friendly zones result~~

~~2.6~~

~~friendly zones go under control~~

~~control by friendly countries~~

~~4.6~~

~~and go peace zone~~

~~return the troops to their original~~

~~5.6~~

~~existing role nuclear weapon~~

~~6.6~~

~~territorial integrity of each country~~

~~6.6~~

~~territorial integrity of each country~~

~~6.6~~

Martin the author of most prominent book "When China Rules" ascribes that he saw drills near Taiwan, read about weapon transformation in Middle East from USA. Also, Martin described that he watched on the TV, the most developing nations in South Asia buying advanced jets. At the end of the book, Martin urged that behind everything, there is military competition has been harming the peace of the world. The same is the story with the current world order. The military competition between nations have been impacting the international relations. Military competitions have resulted the formation of alliance, spread unrest, promoted nuclear race and caused war. Also, the military competitions have harmed economic ties, promoted sanctions, established proxies and increased nuclear war risks. Moreover, the military competitions have reduced people-to-people interactions and threaten peace in the world. Therefore, military competition have only promoted chaos rather than keeping peace in the world.

To begin with overview of the military competition, the military competition has its roots in World War I. During World War I and 2, the nations focused on military superiority. Moreover, the start of Cold War in 1949-1991 gave new hope to the military competitions among nations. Later, the military competitions among nation have entered in current era. Thus, military competition among nation is the provision of wars.