SHAKESPEARE'S POLITICAL POETRY and Its PROPERTIES

Poetry is the presentation of simplified form of ~~matter~~ ~~of known~~ experience and matter known from history.

It is the antithesis of those poetry which deal with the self individual activity. poetry is effected by mass instruments of communication and what hears from others. There is a difference to write about himself and others. But the poetry is actually depends upon what hears from others and interpoet into own words. Fundamentally, political poet doesn't construct imaginary past as Shakespears do. There is a gap b/w him and his subject which he doesn't understand or find irrelevant to his creative task.

The poetry which is essential for all arts, must be ensure what matters and what doesn't.

There is a events which valuable to the poet but not to others and vice versa. political poetry oscillate between these extremes and to see what compromises can be made between them.

MISINFORMATION: A THREAT TO DEMOCRACY

In this year, there would be right to cast 4 Bn votes through out the globe. However, there is a threat to democracy in the form of misinformation. But, it can be counter by evidence based discourses and informed citizens. There are many ways to influence voters i.e propaganda and AI generated deep fakes as was did in July last year in Spain. To counter all these mechanisms, freedom of expression and to judge the seriousness of the problem is the need of the hour.

HUMAN INVENTIONS and THEIR CONSEQUENCES

combustion was the first discovery of the men. they were used the fire for protection at night, cooking meat, preserving food and warming the body. with the passage of time, the positive role of combustion was generating power and negative role was to preparing explosive which led to destruction of mankind.

Due to all this processes, human has made the environment poisonous for himself and other vertebrates on the earth. water is the symbol of life on the earth, its excessive and dearth both leads to destruction of mankind. men should learn from the animals for their resource utilization. Men always utilized their natural resources ineffectively.

they uses plethora of resources for the sake of little need; turn the fertile land into deserts by planting stupid plants. For ease of doing business, they invented a machines which led to unemployment. After all that it would be hard to convince a human being for these economic foolness.

A GOOD STATESMAN and His Properties

There must requires always a good statesman for a nation all the time. He makes those plans which he has ability to accomplished it. A good statesman always knows his boundaries. He cannot lose support by supporting one class over other and vice versa. He try to set all the organs of the state in own realm but function inter-dependently just like a body. A good statesman always prefers public opinions. He must know his destination where he wants to go. He always appreciate the nation and look into its good morals. He never say; This nation is weak, but rather to say; This nation is a sleep and I shall wake it up. A good statesman must be followed by acts not merely words. He always preaching his doctrine, structural reforms and peace. A true leader always sacrifice his principles for the sake of nation and vice versa.
