

ADDRESSING MISINFORMATION IN ELECTIONS

title is not written like this don't write in complete capital letters

Billions of people have ^{the} opportunity to cast votes across the globe this year. There is a threat of acute misinformation that leads to tamper^{ed} electoral process.

Major concern regarding disinformation is its impact on voters, be it through ~~conventional~~ propaganda, claims about candidates or AI generated deepfakes. Different ways are available to control misinformation, such as ~~educational initiatives~~ and ~~evidence-based campaigns~~ The implementation of these mechanisms requires scholars and practitioners to recognize the seriousness of issue, accept that sometimes information classified as false and ensures that interventions respect democratic values.

half precis in a single sentence??? sentence structure is not correct precis has useless detail and useless lengthy sentences there is no word count poor and casual presentation not satisfactory at all need improvement in all aspects of precis writing