RISE AND DOWNFALL OF DUBAI: A Strategic Plan

Sheikh Rashid in his interview showed affection on societal development & future of his country. His words are a wisdom for the benefactors of civilisations. He wanted that they need to rise warriors instead of parasites. This statement depicts understanding of historical & generational dynamics. The transition from camels to luxury vehicles is a reflection of Rapid Development and Modernization of Dubai under his reign. He predicts that camels will return back in coming times leading to country's regression which explains interplay between adversity & prosperity. In difficult times individuals are enforced to develop qualities necessary for survival & progress. These According to his reference strong men are currently living a life of ease and when they become more comfortable they need to cultivate these qualities. Diminish. The weak men are not equipped well to handle adversity when the hard time returns. He called to rise warriors not parasites to inculcate qualities of strong men in future generations. Contextually warriors possess qualities necessary to face & overcome hardships while parasites rely on success of others. Societies can be equipped by sustaining and building existing achievements and emphasising on education and upbringing to shape future generations. As Dubai continues to grow it must balance luxury and innovation with resilience and adaptability in its people by investing in infrastructure technology & human capital to determine long term success. According to Sheikh Rashid's wisdom prosperity is ensued by struggles of strong and capable individuals. By understanding his wisdom, societies can prepare for the better future and declined weaknesses.
