

Why did Pakistan join Western defence pacts? What cost does it have to pay for that? Explain.

Introduction

Geostategic position of Pakistan has always kept it in hot waters. The geographic location of Pakistan is the driven force behind its defense policies. After its inception, India's leadership remained stable and tried to destroy a ^{economically and politically} handicapped Pakistan. Afghanistan denied in United Nations to recognize Pakistan. All incidents since 1947 made Pakistan to join Western defense pacts in 1954 and 1955. Resultantly, Pakistan has to give up its independent foreign policy choice. However, key decisions cannot be made.

over night but vulnerable situations can do it. Thus, Pakistan has to do reforms as it is the need of hour because its is now 77 years strong and have enough power to overcome consequences of saying no.

Keep the introduction a bit brief

Reason for Joining Western Defense Pacts

After Independence in 1948, the leader of Pakistan Quaid-e-Azam died that imparts the idea of weak leadership to India.

Assassination of Liaquat Ali Khan in 1951 exacerbates the situation. Several other reasons include :-

Kashmir in

Indian Annexation of '1948

The unjustified division of industry, medical services and defense machinery failed the Pakistan to protect Kashmir. Chief Army of Pakistan General Crerar also denied to stop India in Kashmir. This raised the question that if India can annex Kashmir, then it will take no time to breach the territorial sovereignty of Pakistan.

Durand line disagreement

Afghanistan's shah denied to recognize Pakistan as an independent state in the form of United Nation. Though, both were Islamic states. Kabul wanted to merge KPK in Afghanistan but back in 1890's, he had already signed a border treaty with British viceroy. According to which Durand line was an internationally recognized border.

Political Instability

Pakistan's constitution was Government of India Act 1935 with few amendments. This act gives more authority to Governor Generals which is unduly used by Malik Chuliam Muhammad. The continue dismissal of prime ministers gave enemies of Pakistan

a powerful hint of collapsing Institutions

Christopher Jafferlot in his book Pakistan at crossroads, writes that:- "The era in which Pakistan was about to run on democratic track was overshadowed by military rule. The wrong decisions of Malik Ghulam pave the way for Pakistan's dependence on Defense".

SFAATO and CENTO

Though, Pakistan had an option to remain non-aligned in bipolar world of US and USSR. But, Liaquat Ali Khan choose US to cope up with possible security threats from neighbour states. Thus, Pakistan joined SFAATO in 1954 and CENTO.

in 1955 Seato and Cento were US made alliance against USSR. These alliance provides defense machinery and weapons to its members. Pakistan also received aid under its shadow. ~~This~~, Unfortunately, it proves to be a zero-sum game for Pakistan in long-term.

Cost Paid by Pakistan

of joining defense Pacts

Defense Pacts helped Pakistan to improve industries, agriculture sectors and funding defense sector. But its cost is still have been paid by Pakistan.

Dependent foreign policy

As Pakistan has always been remained under the influence of aid from America. Any divergent behaviour from America's conditions led Pakistan to sanction. For example, In 1965, when Pakistan used American's missiles against India, America sanctioned the Pakistan as these weapons were not allowed to use against India.

Restricted Economic Opportunities

Pakistan is not allowed to deal in other currencies except dollar. Due to heavy loans from IMF, rupee is declining and inflation is rising. Therefore, economic conditions have always been on stake. Pakistan's fiscal policy is designed in accordance to IMF conditions.

~~Impact~~ Civil-Military Politics

The Western defence Pacts has permanently added military in Pakistan's democratic government. This also disturbs the confidence of Pakistanis in its military. Zulfikar Ali Bhutto paves a way for democracy and to create a civil supremacy but Zia's Martial law black out its efforts and till today Pakistan is facing its consequences.

Pakistan ranks at 118th out of 165 democracies in the world.

Conclusion

It is no use to cry over split milk is a famous idiom. It is time for Pakistan to renew its glory that it gained after independence Maleeha Lodhi in his book, Pakistan - The search for stability provided a comprehensive way to reform the structural and functional negligences. The first step is to lessen dependence on foreign aid. Therefore, Pakistan has to think and analyze retrospectively for future decision making.
