

Balancing Freedom in Education

there are three viewpoints regarding the Three viewpoints ~~dominate~~ the ~~discourse~~ of liberty in education. First, children must be liberated regardless of the ~~evils~~. Second, children must be controlled regardless of their good behaviour. Third, children must always pursue good despite freedom. The writer criticizes the third perspective ~~of being too utopian and that the children, if liberated, not necessarily act virtuous~~. The third approach restricts knowledge to spontaneous development only. However, education is much more than that. It equips man with the essentials of cooperating within communities. Regulated Education leads to self-control and positive intellectual development among children. Therefore, education is much more than an instrument for spontaneous development.

don't break the sentence

main idea is picked and discussed

there is issue of sentence structure and basic grammar

be precise and to the point write basic simple sentences 8/20

Total words: 323

Word count of passage 323

Word count of précis: 95.