

Make a précis of the given passage and suggest a suitable title:

Effect of reading on human beings

The imaginative author ^{affects} affects the human beings consciously or unconsciously. The effect of reading is exactly the same like effect of food. Reading does not merely mean literary taste, but it has also other influences like ~~conscientious~~

~~examination~~ Everyone, who is able ^{able to what?} to remember some moment in youth when he was completely affected by one poet. He might be affected by several poets consecutively. The reasons for this attraction is not merely sensibility to poetry but also due to stronger personality of poet.

One author affects people for a time, then another. The people compare different authors and it becomes a criticism which protects people from excessive possession by any literary personality. The good critic takes part in criticism. Too much reading is not valuable for the collection of knowledge. It is valuable because being affected by some authors, the people stop to be dominated by more authors. The people assert and give place few authors in some arrangement ^{to} themselves.

Too long. Précis should be one third of the passage.
