

→ FEMINISM IS NOT REALLY A THIRD WORLD ISSUE

1. Introduction

2. Feminism is not really a third world issue

1. All individuals in the third world are devoid of basic human rights.

Case in Point: Genocide in Gaza, War in Kashmir are bigger issues than gender biases.

2. Autocratic Leaders do not distinguish atrocities based on gender.

Case in Point: Unjust to Rohingya Muslims in Myanmar is done by female autocrat.

3. Hunger and Poverty overshadow the bifercations of sex.

Case in Point: African continent

4. The First world also discriminates against women.

Case in Point: Kamala Harris and the US Presidential Elections.

5. Regional Organisations are headed by Male members.

Case in Point: UN never had a female Secretary General.

6. Third world is stuck in poly-crises, gender is the last issue to cater.

These are well organised

Case in Point: Famines, Floods etc.

Food Shortage in Somalia.

7. The first world lays emphasis on feminism in certain regions for vested interests.

Case in Point: Taliban 2.0 in Afghanistan.

8. Gender-based violence is not just limited to the third world.

Case in Point: 29% women (25-29 years)

reported work place GBV in 12 months.

(US-AID Report).

9. Women in First world are also less-paid than male counter-parts.

Case in Point: 11.2% wage gap across OECD in 2022.
