

Effects of Literary Personalities On Human Beings

Human beings are influenced by the imaginative work of an author while reading the content he produced. It is evident from historical perspective of literary education that reading affects directly regardless to obtain the literary taste only. The author believes that every Poetophile is influenced by several poets in young age. The reason is that this passing attraction towards poetry is not due to keener sensibility of poetry in youth but a stronger personality of poet impacted more quickly and deeply in under-developing stage of youth personality. Also, comparison of favourite authors results in the development of rationality which protects them from excessive possession by different literates. The author says that it leads towards discrimination when people are critiques of authors but leave no criticism on persons who write reviews. Wide reading is purposeful only if one is cautious about his domination by others.
