~~Title:~~ World of Ancient Greeks: Gods, Oracles and Soothsayers

~~After~~
By realizing superpowers' authority, humans became fearful and needed to communicate with the divine. In ancient Greece the awareness of gods' wishes served as a guide for humans; gifted to soothsayers who made predictions by observing multiple natural phenomena like birds' actions, lightning thunder, and animals' behavior during sacrifices. ~~Secondly, dream-interpretation and palmistry were also famous where notable soothsayers were Tiresias, Calchas, Helenus, Amphiaraus and Cassandra.~~ However, there were abundant examples where gods directly communicated to an intermediate, and the prophet, ~~significantly~~ <sup>and</sup> prophetess, ecstatically delivered the gods' message. The oracles associated with either gods, operated on seers' future-prediction practices. The oracle
