Translation

It is important to see, what our enemies do to us, to find our secret flaws. Our friends advise us according to our feelings. Either they do not consider them as flaws or they hide them to keep sadness away from us.

On the other side, our enemies search keenly and bring our flaws from covered personality.

Although, he exaggerate them but to some extent it is reality.

Friends always praise our strength while enemies approve our weaknesses.

That's why, we should be grateful to our enemies who make us aware about flaw. From this perspective, enemies are better than friends.
