The essay

Marwan Bashra, an author of "Israel-Palestine: Peace or Apartheid" explored at the end chapters of the book. "The shifting sand of middle East always tells different stories". Undoubtedly, middle East is one of the regions which tells different stories always in the case of challenges and opportunities. The future of middle East will be dark. There will be challenges such as Palestine vs. Israel war, giant power rivalry, terrorism and climate change. There will be the threat of nationalism, trade war between China and U.S. countries in the region will also face political instability. Contrarily, there will be numerous opportunities too. The opportunities will include energy richness, tourism, investment in the technology, technological of Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) and conflict resolution mechanism. Similarly, middle East is a hub to economic activities and cultural activities. Therefore, middle East always tells different stories to the world.

To begin with middle East, it is one of the most important regions. Middle East is famous for enormous deserts, cultural activities and energy. Middle East is not only famous for its energy, deserts but also it has religious importance. It is considered to be the birth place of Islam, Christianity and Judaism. It contains countries like Israel, Iran, Jordan, Palestine, Egypt, KSA, Iraq, Syria, Oman, Qatar, and UAE. Middle East has been facing wars, terrorism, political instability and climate change. Although, Middle East contains resources to overcome the existing issues. Thus, Middle East is one of the most important regions in the world.

Palestine vs. Israel war is one of the burning issues in Middle East. The war was started since 1948 (Nakba). The issue has always posed threat to the region. Ezzan Pappé, an author of "The Ethnic Cleansing of Palestinians" urged in his book that the Palestine vs. Israel war would always be a threat to the region. The same is the case with current situation of Middle East. The future of Middle East will also face this challenge. If the ongoing genocide of Palestine continues in Gaza, it will pose enormous threat to the region. Marwan Bashra well described the war crime of Israel that "The greatest challenge for the Middle East will be the consequences of Israeli war crime". Thus, Palestine vs. Israel war will be a challenge for Middle East.

Similarly, giant powers rivalry will be posing threat to the region. Giant powers include Iran and U.S.A. The United States has tremendous alliances with the state of Israel and Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). The mutual interest among alliances is to counter the influence of Iran. Iran has also partners such as Hamas, Houthis, Iraq and Hezbollah. The rivalry between the United States and Iran has resulted in destruction of infrastructure, massive casualties and economic crisis. The future of the middle East will not be free from the rivalry. The region will face enormous chaos and crisis. Rivalry between the United States and Iran will be challenge for the middle East. In nutshell, giant powers rivalry will be a challenge for the middle East.

Terrorism will also pose threat to middle East. Middle East has been considered hotbed of terrorism. According to Global Terrorism Index Report 2023, there are numerous non-state actors such as ISIS, Al-Qaeda, Houthi, Hezbollah, Hayat-ul-Tehmir ul Sham, Boko Haram, IS-Iraq so on and so forth. These groups have been creating profound challenges to the region. Each of the group has its own objectives in the region. Terrorism will fuel the flame in the region for self objectives such as establishment of Khilafate (Islamic state) in the region. This will be enormous challenge for the region. Thus, terrorism will be posing threat to peace in middle East.

Besides, Climate change poses huge challenge to middle East. Climate change which is ~~being produced~~ due to the global warming. It has massive challenge middle East. According to middle East Economic Survey (MEES) 2023, the region has suffered 8 billion US$ dollars loss and thousands of casualties in UAE and Oman.

Moreover, the international conferences such as COP 30 will also influence the non-renewable energy resources based economies of middle East. Therefore, managing economies and sustaining emission will be a challenge for middle East.

Additionally, nationalism is a challenge for middle East. Middle East has multicultures and nationalities. The nationalism of Zionists and the Kurds have been pushing the region into war. The Zionists have been pushing ideology to capture Palestine, Syria, Lebanon, part of KSA and Turkey. According to the nationalist ideology of Zionists, these lands are "promised lands" in their holy book.

Consequently, the Zionist ideology of one Jewish nationality will pose threat to the region. The same is the case with the Kurds who want separate homeland based on Kurdish nationality. In short, nationalism will be a challenge to middle East.

Similarly, great powers race war is posing threat to the region. Major economic powers such as U.S.A and China will be a challenge to middle East. China who is using soft power in middle East. China has ~~been investing in the energy sector of the middle East.~~ According to Middle East Economic Survey 2023, China imports annually 60% of energy from GCC through Qudat port. China has also invested in the technological economy of the middle East. The United States does not like to see China influencing the region. Especially, KSA's shift from dollar based business to local currencies. The Biden Administration had announced India-Middle East-Europe Corridor. In the future the United States and China will be on fit-for-tat trade competition which will create economic chaos in the region. In short, trade will be a challenge for middle East.

Political instability will be a challenge for middle East. Middle East has been facing several types of chaos. Political instability is one of them. Recently, the oust of Assad Regime is an example of political instability in the region. According to International Crisis Group (ICG) currently numerous militant groups are presenting demands before Hajat-ul-Tehrir-sham's leadership. The ICG's report urges that if the leadership does not agree with the demands of militant groups such as ISIS, Al-Qaeda and Al-Nar-ul-sham. There will be another civil war and political instability in the region. Thus, political instability will be a challenge for middle East.

Contrarily, middle East has enormous opportunities such as energy. Middle East is a rich energy region. It has natural gas, oil and gasoline. It supports the transport of the entire world. According to middle East

Economic Survey (MEES) 2023, middle East is the only region that provides 80% hydrocarbons to the world. GCC in the future can attract more countries in the energy sector to invest. The economic ties among the regional and global players may help to resolve long standing conflicts in the region. Thus, middle East is energy rich region which provides tremendous opportunities.

Besides, Middle East has enormous tourist sites. Middle East can attract cultural, religious and risky tourists. This will not only contribute to boost the economies but also bring peace in the region. The most beautiful landscapes of the region will create profound employment not only for natives but also for the foreigners. Therefore, the landscape of middle East has enormous capability to attract tourism.

Middle East also provides huge investment opportunities to investors. It provides chances to investors to invest in the advancement of technology. KSA-China have signed numerous agreements in the sector of technology. Middle Eastern nations provides huge chance to technological giant powers to invest in AI, defence so on and so forth. The investment will create enormous jobs and prosperity in the region. Thus, middle East provides investment opportunities.

Middle Eastern nations have been trying to solve the ongoing conflict between Hamas-Israel. The Arab nations have the capabilities to solve the conflict through diplomacy. The GCC can use energy as a tool of diplomacy to end the genocide of Palestinians. The only thing which is missing in the Arab world is unity. Thus, there is a profound opportunity to resolve the Palestine issue among Middle Eastern powers.

Middle East is a hub for economic activities. Middle East has enormous land routes, seaports, energy and valuable lands. These all can support tremendous economies in the region. The economic interdependence among nations can eliminate war, terrorism, violence, poverty, etc. and so forth. Therefore, Middle East provides an economic hub for economic activities.

Besides, Middle East provides a stage for cultural activities. It can attract and connect the entire cultures through sports, tourism, diplomacy and trade. The FIFA World Cup 2034 in KSA will be the best opportunity to promote cultural activities or interaction. Therefore, Middle East supports tremendous connectivity based on culture, religion, language and profession.

To sum up the entire discussion, Middle East is one of the most important regions in the world. It has not only provided jobs, investment and tourist sites but also contribute to the existence of the world. Middle East must not be ignored for the chaos which is going on in the region. International community must play role to eliminate wars, terrorism and climate related issues. The Middle East must be made economic hub, according to its natural features rather than battleground. There must not be bloodshed, violence and suppression against the masses. The international organization such UNO's UNSC must not forget its objective to establish peace in the region. Otherwise, The shifting sands of Middle East will tell different stories.
