Human trafficking, a crime, having no boundaries, affects individuals of all ages, genders and backgrounds. It remains a pressing global issue, and so too for Pakistan.

Human Trafficking is a serious silent crisis, festering beneath the surface of the society and ensnaring countless people in a web of exploitation and despair. Among many factors; poverty and economic disparities, lack of education, environmental disaster and technology are majorly responsible for this crime, in Pakistan. Thus leads to loss of freedom, serious health complications and global consequences. Pakistan has enormous strengths - remarkable resilience, vibrant media and a promising civil society - through which by little efforts, this curse can be eliminated.
