B. Conclusion;

"In the beginning of civilization on the Earth, there was war of all against all." In this quote Thomas Hobbes had clearly mentioned that men were anarchic and selfish, at the start of civilization on the Earth. Then, they started realizing to cooperate with each and surrender their rights to a sovereign authority who will ensure that all ^{the} people exercise their freedom in their limits and will also seek to provide the several rights to their citizens. Since then, governments were formed and a contract was signed on various rights and duties. Evolving with time, the rights and freedom of the citizens became an important part of the constitution of every country. Today, almost every government has the responsibility of ensuring the right to live to their people. Similarly, the responsibility of governments include ensuring access to education to all the citizens. ~~In the same~~ ^{providing quality} ~~health facilities~~ ^{is another responsibility} ~~of the government.~~ In the same manner, ^{Moreover,} ensuring that all the citizens have freedom of speech is also the responsibility of the government. Similarly, there is a need to take some pragmatic steps in order to make the government further responsible for ensuring rights and freedom to their citizens. In a nutshell, the government shall be realized why the people had made the social contract, and therefore the responsibility of the government to ensure the fundamental rights and freedom to their citizens and this can be strengthened further by taking some pragmatic steps.

Reiterating the responsibilities of the government. There is a dire need to know the importance of the government first. As mentioned earlier, Thomas Hobbes had clearly mentioned that the people had surrendered their authority to get several rights and freedom in return. The same had also been mentioned by Locke and Rousseau in their social contract theory. They had clearly stated that government was formed in order to follow the social contract (constitution) which clearly advocates for the fundamental rights of the citizen. In short, every government shall make sure that the citizen including the minorities, people from different sects, religions, and ethnicity, all shall be treated equally and no compromise shall be made on their basic freedom and fundamental rights.

~~While mentioning about~~

~~Coming towards the rights~~
~~and~~ ~~of~~ ~~the~~ ~~citizens~~, there are several rights which the citizens owe to the government. These include: right to live, right to education, right to quality health facilities, freedom of speech, freedom in exercising respective religions, right to legal rights, right to equal economic opportunities and several others. These rights are not a favor from the government, but instead, it is mandatory for the government to ensure these rights to their citizens. To sum up, citizens pay the taxes and follow the other rules and regulations of the government just to get their rights and freedom in return from the government.

various responsibilities of the government keeping in view the protection of people's rights and freedom. The first responsibility of all of them is ensuring the right to live to all the citizens. We have seen various studies and examples where the innocent are being killed. Government takes action on the suspects and takes them into custody, but there shall be strict punishments given to the murderers in order to ensure that no one else repeat the same again in future. It is also mentioned in the constitution of the government that right to live shall be ensured to all the citizens. Our prophet (PBUH) also clearly mentioned in the charter of Madinah that it will be the responsibility of the government to ensure that no one is being injustice or killed unjustifiably. In short, right to live is the primary responsibility of the government towards their citizens.

Similarly, it is the responsibility of the government to ensure that all the citizens have access to education. Education is a key driver in making a society civilized and also puts a society on the track of progress. It is clearly being mentioned in the constitution of Pakistan to provide free education to all the citizens from 1st till 10th class. United Nations had also mentioned in the MDG's and SDG's that all the governments shall ensure quality education to their citizens. Fundamental rights being mentioned from Article 8-28 in the constitution of Pakistan, clearly states that it is the responsibility of the government to provide quality education to their citizens. Thus, among the several other rights, the right to education is also ^{one} of the rights that the citizens owe to their government.

Additionally, it is the prime responsibility of the government to ensure health facilities to their citizens. Health facilities in the form of quality infrastructure, ensuring quality doctors, availability in the hospitals ^{and several others is} the responsibility of the government.

towards their citizens. Governments also has the responsibility to ensure funding to research so that the cures of the several new diseases and equipment for them are being arranged timely. United Nations also provide funding to various states in order to ensure better health facilities to the citizens. It is clearly mentioned in the SDGs that the governments shall make sure that better facilities are given to their citizens on timely basis.
 Hence, it is better for government to allocate adequate amount of funds to health services in order to fulfill its responsibility towards the citizens.

Moreover, among the various freedom rights, the freedom of speech to all the citizens shall be given due importance by the government and shall make sure that nobody is being harmed in their state, just by expressing his thoughts. People shall be given the right to criticize the wrong things.

the government and praising the commendable steps taken by the government. In democracy especially, the right and freedom of speech is very effective as it holds the government accountable and don't allow the government to drift from the right track. This was especially ensured since Magna Carta that the government should act according to the constitutions which clearly mention the responsibility of the government to ensure freedom of speech to the citizens. ~~To ensure in constitution is the sovereign authority of every country and in every constitution the freedom of speech had been clearly advocated for the citizens.~~

To add further to the responsibilities of the government, the freedom to exercise respective religion shall also be ensured by the government. There are various threats to freedom of religion especially due to sectarianism in Pakistan. The shiites and the sunnis usually confront each other and in this way their freedom is being affected. There are a lot of case studies, especially the current issue of Sha, Sunni in Pakistan is one of the prime case study which restricts the freedom of the minorities and clearly advocates for the responsibility of government to make sure that all the citizens have freedom in exercising their religion. To sum up, a responsible government shall ensure the freedom of exercising religion to all in order to progress in this competitive era.

Besides this, it is the responsibility of the government to ensure justice by respecting the rule of law in a country. Every citizen of a country has the right to be treated equally and this can only be ensured if the government fulfill its duty and respects the rule of law. Countries have made progress only when their government had fulfilled the responsibility of justice and rule of the law in the

and act as a barrier country. This also checks it against the several crimes like corruption, nepotism, favoritism and many others. Our prophet Muhammad (SAW) had also mentioned it clearly that the government shall be fair in ensuring justice even if it be against the daughter of Muhammad. As he mentioned clearly that even if Fatima (daughter of Muhammad) had stolen something, I would have cut her hand. This clearly emphasizes the responsibility of the government in ensuring justice and rule of law in the country.

Additionally, the right of access to equal economic opportunities is also the responsibility of the government to be fulfilled. All the citizens are equal in the eyes of the government and therefore, the government shall make sure that economic opportunities are equally being provided to all the segments of society. Usually, in Pakistan, some of the minorities have the grievances from the government that economic opportunities are mostly provided to a few segments of the country. There is a dire need that the government shall address these grievances and shall take all the people into consideration in order to fulfill its responsibility. Government of Pakistan had always taken steps to fulfill its responsibility of ensuring right to equal economic opportunities and this can be clearly seen in its government's effort at various implementing and formation of the NRE Award. Thus, in order to keep the citizens happy, the government shall fulfill its responsibilities and ensure the rights to the citizens.

Finally, Access to legal rights is another issue which government shall cater. It is the fundamental right of every citizen that government shall ensure his legal rights no matter what the situations are. Minorities and the poor are usually not being given their due legal rights and are being discriminated. Sometimes, the government doesn't have enough staff to ensure timely legal rights to all the citizens. This shall be catered ~~for~~ by the government in order to ensure the fundamental rights to the ~~citizens~~. One of the famous authors had mentioned in his book that a responsible government shall ensure timely access to legal rights to ~~all~~ citizens in order to ensure peace and stability in the country. Hence, right to legal rights shall be ensured by the government to all the citizens.

Till now 'several rights and freedom of ~~citizens~~ had been mentioned which shall be ensured by the state. Now, in the upcoming paragraphs few pragmatic steps will be discussed which ^{will} help in ~~making~~ a government more responsible in its duty of ensuring several rights and ~~freedom~~ of the citizens.

One of most important is that education shall ~~will be given~~ due importance by government and shall be updated accordingly. All the people in the government are basically the citizens of the country. So in order to ensure that all the future government officials ^{shall} fulfill their future responsibilities there is a dire need that the education shall be updated. It shall provide knowledge of fundamental rights and freedom to all the citizens, so in future when they are part of the government, they will give due importance to government's responsibility of ensuring fundamental rights to all the citizens. Education thus is a key driver that can make future government officials more responsible in fulfilling their duty of ensuring fundamental rights to all. In short, for a government to be vigilant and far sighted, it shall focus on education to make more responsible citizens to come to government in future.

The key step that needs to be taken is ensuring inclusivity in the government. This will in turn allow the people from various segments of the society to become part of government, decision making and legislation.

Once people from different minorities and background are mixed part of the government, they will definitely ensure that rights are provided to all the citizens. This will in turn drive the government to take more and more responsibility. Seeing all the successful nations and governments, especially USA, one can extract one thing common out of all of them and that is inclusivity which drives them towards ensuring their responsibility of fundamental rights and making such laws which helps in ensuring rights to all the citizens. Hence, in order to make a government more responsible, there is a dire need of ensuring inclusivity in the government.

In a nutshell, for countries to be successful they need to make sure that their governments provide all the fundamental rights and freedom to their citizens and can take some pragmatic steps in making their governments more responsible in the future. A successful government is the one that ensures the provision of all.

fundamental rights and freedom to their citizens. Mainly, the freedom to exercise religion shall be ensured to all. Similarly, rule of law and justice shall be given due importance. Additionally, equal economic opportunities and access to legal rights shall also be ensured by the government in order to fulfill their responsibility. For making a government more responsible in future steps like providing quality updated education and ensuring inclusivity in the government shall be due importance in order to build a better and responsible upcoming governments. To sum up, no country wants to move on the path of regression, instead everyone dreams to progress, but this usually takes time. It is an evolutionary process which evolves with time and governments are being made responsible by their citizens with every passing day. There can be several instances where fundamental rights are not ensured, but these are mainly due lack of some resources or other shortcomings, etc. the governments are now trying their best in fulfilling their responsibility of ensuring fundamental rights and freedom to all the citizens.
