Dealing With Children

The author objects modern educationists' preference for not compromising the children whereas they should enjoy the company of students. If not tries to embarrass in them a social behavior and their minds some other expectation of them; they will not feel secure themselves. If brilliant teachers have the ability to deal with children then it is necessary to interfere with children freedom without damage their feelings. Ironically, man is engaged in strenuous efforts for securing his basic necessities of life. Actually, this capacity make strengthen man spirit. Unfortunately, over burdened teachers are unable to serve for children. Moreover, this causing more irritation despite teachers efforts. The rules cannot replace affection and strategy.
