In order to know our hidden flaws, it is important to see what our enemies say. Our friends often compliment us to flatter us. Firstly, they do not consider our flaws as flaws or they care about us so much that they hide our flaws in order not to afflict us with sorrow. On the contrary, our enemy exposes us a lot and search for our flaws from every possible angle. Such as that he makes mountains of mole hill. But it has some reality in it. A friend always enhances good deeds and enemy, our flaws. That is why we should be more grateful to our enemy that he makes us aware of our flaws. In this context, enemy is better than a friend.
