

Q:5

Note on 'End of History' / (a) part of Q

Answer Introduction

10 Marks.

"The Europe must end its peace holidays."

(Fukuyama)

Fukuyama presented theory 'end of history', which was supported and criticized by people.
But, 'end of history' has become a hot topic in political science, which describes power hegemony of democratic rule of the US. Thus, Fukuyama presented a political view of 'end of history'.

2- An overview of 'End of History'
by Fukuyama

'In 1989, German Wall breakdown divided

Germany, which is so called 'end of History'.

(Fukuyama)

Fukuyama in the beginning presented 'end of History', when German was divided Germany into East and West Germany. Later in 1991, the Cold War era also supported 'democratic norms.' Resultantly, Fukuyama changed it 'end of History and the last man.' This shows success of democracy in the West.

3- Derivation of 'end of History'

Cyclic process is described as below.

a) Democracy versus Monarchy

In the beginning, Fukuyama compared democracy with Monarchy. Actually, French revolution is a great example of it.

"French revolution went in favour of democracy."
(Fukuyama)

This shows achievement of democracy in comparison with Monarchy.

b) Democracy versus Fascism

Further, Democracy came in against of Fascism. Italy-born fascist became anti-theory of democracy.

"Laws are created with perception of wars."

(Hitler)

This shows again success of democracy against fascism.

c) Democracy versus communism

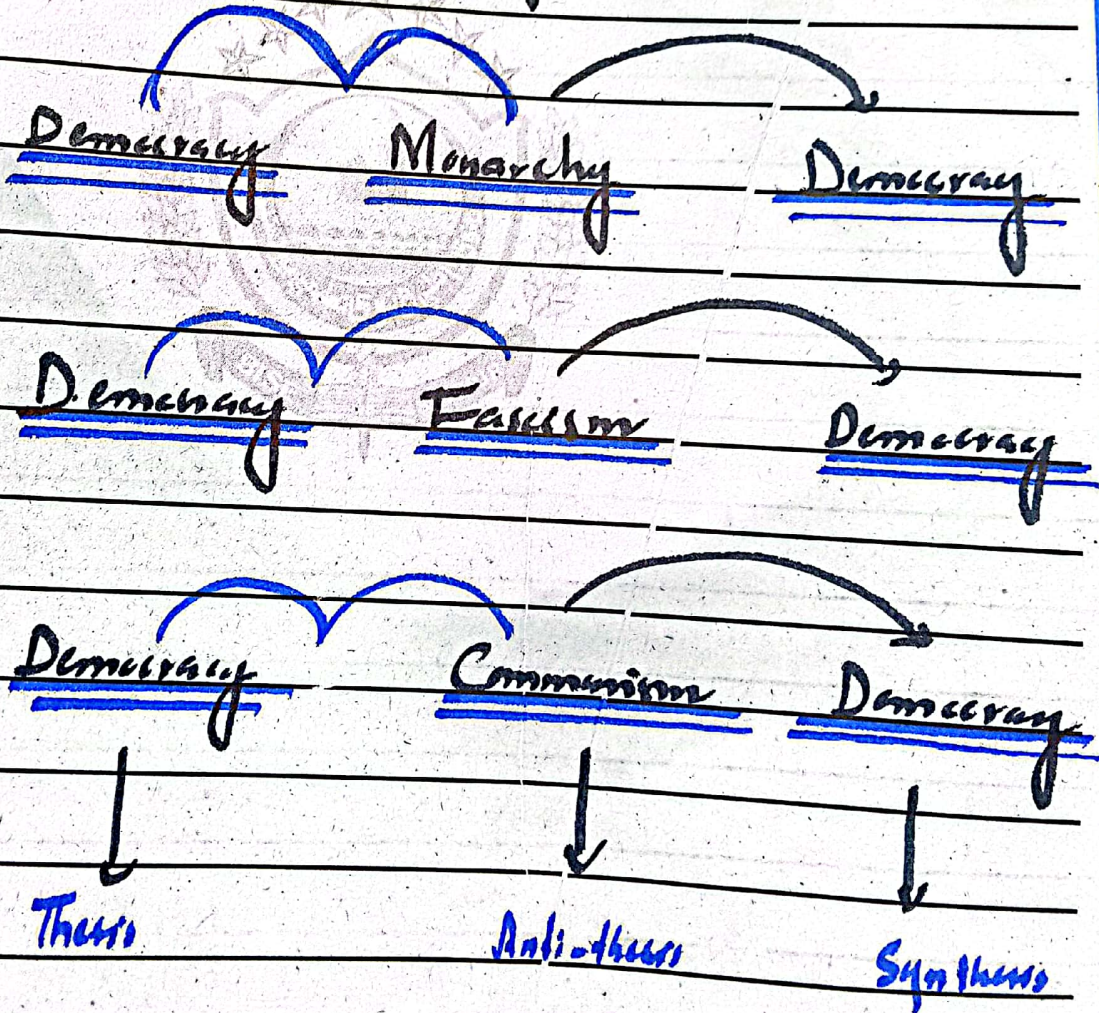

Moreover, democracy hit against communism. In the late 20th century, democracy again came up at global stage.

"Success of democracy in the cold war"

is a success of the fact "End of History."
(Fukuyama)

Thus, democracy defeated communism ideology and supported End of History.

Conclusion

'World is definitely moving towards liberal democracy.'

(The New York Times)

Fukuyama presented theory 'End of History'. It strongly advocated 'Democratic success'. Historic cycle also reveals democracy as a success of
'End of History'. Thus, Fukuyama supported
'democracy' in theory 'End of History'.
