Lahore city is an ancient centre of not only politics but also culture. The Mughal culture reached its climax in this city. It was also a hub of Sikh culture. The culture of education and literature also originated in this very city. Mysticism was also centred here. The author of the famous book on mysticism "Kashaf-ul-Mehboob", Hazrat Ali Hajveri alias Hazrat Daata Gunj Bakhsh, is also enshrined here. Even throughout the British era, Lahore was the fashion capital of Hindustan. The significance of this city did not diminish after the creation of Pakistan.
