

9: Implications of leading a Neurotic life:

Psychoses and Neuroses are one of those mental disorders which prevent man from leading a proportionate life. Because of these diseases, one's ego totally collapses which prevents him from attaining his life goals, rather he starts to show barbaric behaviour. Moreover, in less severe forms, one mental function like hearing may empower other. In other cases, his ego may turn one sided. Resultantly, the sick person not only deviates from his real self but also from his cultural norms. However, according to Carl Jung, culture is not the main issue here but not being able to live a harmonious and emotionally balanced life is.

Total words: 125

Words written: 117.

Comprehension 2014

2) Why and how did the Reign of Terror begin?

The Reign of Terror started during "French Revolution" in which large number of politicians belonging to French monarch were executed. Due to different political aspirations and agendas, French nation could not unite, and consequently, civil war started.

2) In what ways, according to author, American Revolution was easier to complete than French?

According to author, American Revolution took place in different continent, in which European nations did not try to interfere. Secondly American Revolution was simply about recognizing American character and separation from British domination, without any violent uprising. Thirdly, despite of diversity, Americans united for the cause of Independence, religious autonomy and equality.

3) Out of all causes, which one do you think had the greatest impact which led to inability of French Revolution?

French Revolution could not succeed like American Revolution despite of having a same ideal, because during the movement France had to protect itself from foreign forces. From time to time, different nations tried to interfere in its matter; for instance, Austria giving or refuge to ousted king and conflicts with Belgium and Britain.

4) Of the strengths mentioned aiding the American revolutionaries, which do you think had the greatest impact to complete a successful revolution? why?

Americans were successful in gaining independence peacefully from hegemon like Britain at that time, because all of them knew what they wanted. They were simply striving for complete separation from British influence. Furthermore, all of them united under the same banner, so, no one tried to preserve British influence.