

Title: Atlantic City: A Historical Place of Reminiscence

Precis:

One day, road of Atlantic City was rough with dust behind the car. In 1870, Atlantic City was situated in a desert. Also, it was a significant town taken by emigrants in search of gold to make wealth. However, only few made wealth; others did not. When the gold rush ended, the emigrants packing tools; trying luck somewhere else, left city. Later, hotels, bars, and jail closed down. This city had few people with some old and new houses. Moreover, there laid a plain town with few houses with had a fire-station and a saloon where one could drink and enter. Thus, it was the perfect place for those wanted to see old saloon, wooden bars, large mirrors, electric light and dinner table.

Question NO. 6

Punctuation:

All over the English-speaking world, critics have greeted these essays with such comments as 'brilliant', 'provocative', 'magnificent'. Many find that Huxley is the finest essayist since Montaigne. It has been said that Mr. Huxley is not only a literary giant, but one of the greatest thinkers of our time. Mr. Huxley's topic is "Man" - the total compass of his faculties in science, literature, music, religion, art, love speculative thinking and simple being. Here, displayed to the full, is the astonishing virtuosity of Huxley's genius. The range of Aldous Huxley's thinking was astonishing. His opinions on art were original and well-founded as his discussions of biology or architecture, poetry music, or history. As virtuoso of letters, he was unequalled. Born into a famous family with a long intellectual tradition, Huxley attended Eton and Oxford. His reputation as a writer was well-established before he was thirty.
